THE FATAL VAPOR STOVE. Young Lady Frightfully Burned by the Escaping Vapor Fuel. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 15.—Miss June Iolmes, a beautiful young lady, aged 17 years, was fatally burned at her house No. 1425 Eighth street northwest, yesterday afternoon. The young lady is the daughter of Mrs. J. A. Holmes, of the bureau of education, who is now in Louisville in charge of the educational exhibit at the exposition there. Miss June was living with her grandmother, Mrs. J. B. Archibald, at the above address, and had control of the household affairs. She returned home from the high school, which she attends, shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and began preparing for the family dinner. The meals are prepared upon a patent vapor stove, and Miss Holmes attempted to light it. In doing so some of the fluid dripped from the stove to the floor and ignited. The young lady rashly attempted to extinguish the flame with a calico apron she wore. The apron caught fire, and in an instant the flames completely covered her. She ran screaming out into the hell more acceptance. No. 1425 Eighth street northwest, yester

She was taken to her room, and, when laid upon the bed had fainted. Dr. Winter was called in and applied cooling lotions, but she remained very weak, and there is but little hope of her recovery. The entire body of Miss Holmes was covered with blisters, and all her beautiful long hair and her eyebrows were gone. When she was taken into the house her clothes were completely burned off, only a few burnt rags remaining. Mrs. Holmes was telegraphed for and will return to-day.

WASHINGTON, October 15.—Another nurder has been added to the already murder has been added to the already large list of those committed here in the last few weeks. This afternoon James Shober, a printer, was attacked by James Phillips, a fellow workman, for using a remark which offended him. Phillips fired five shots, the first of which took effect in Shober's breast, causing death in half un hour. The fatal quarrel origonated while the two combattants were standing in a group of printers in front of the Adtional Republican office. Phillips fired most of the shots while pursuing Shober up, the street, when an officer stopped him and took him to the Fifth precifict, station. Shober ran quite a considerable distance when he fell from exhaustion. He was rapidly sinking when carried to the hospital and died soon after reaching there.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., Oct. 15 .- This day's journey of Mr. Blaine was a very long one, 247 miles, and as there were a great many stops, each was necessarily ort. There were twenty-nine places which Mr. Blaine and General Fremont were called out, but there were really no merely congratulated the people upon the Ohio victory, and called upon them to imitate it in Michigan, and then General remont was introduced.

At most of the points where stops were made the crowds were remarkably large, considering the population of the region traversed. The news from Ohio, with Mr. Blaine's coming, seems to have wrought ment and the enthusiasm could not be ex-ceeded. It was dark when the train reached Howard City, and here torches and bonfires began to appear. At about a quarter past seven the train arrived at Grand Rapids. On arrived at Grand Rapids. On the east side of the river Mr. Blaine left the train and was escorted by Republican clubs through the city to the Morton House, where he is to pass the night. Several thousand people were in the streets in the neighborhood of the hotel awaiting his arrival, and there were the usual demonstrations as he entered the hotel. He will leave in the morning for Saginaw, making, of course, a good many stops on the way. Gen. Fremont will probably accompany him during his entire tour through Michigan.

His reception beggars description. Every person in the vast audience rose to his feet and cheered and and raised a handkerchief as a hat as though out of his senses. Beecher appeared to be really affected by the enthusiasm.

President Taylor especially distinguished himself by the severity of the language with which he assailed the Mormon parents, and by the vigor with which he charged billiops to cut off from the church those who saw fit to disobey his injunctions. Other officials, however, held views at variance with those of Mr. Taylor, and in frequent instances the teachers of the commission were welcomed in Mormon society.

cal struggle for united and earnest effort. It has been my firm belief that one reason why we as a people do not enjoy to the utmost the advantages of our clare of government, is found in the fact that our business men are apt to neglect their political duties. The idea is too common among them that there is a heroism and a virtue in refusing to hold office and the denial of any interest in political and a virtue and business integrity. The protection and safety of the interests they have in charge are closely connected with a wise administration of the Government, and it has always seemed to me that if a regard for their duty as citizens did not impel them to take a more active interest in political affairs the desire and need of self preservation should. I believe, too, that the best administration of government is accomplished when it is conducted on business principles, and it is quite apparent that the active participation of our business men in political campaigns is an effective mode of impressing these principles upon the management of public attairs. I construct this large and enthusiastic meeting and the determination on the part of business men from which it had its rise, as the promise of a time when they shall find the path of duty, as well as interest in a practical and intelligent interference with political questions and issues.

Uproar and applause punctuated the Governor's speech. At every period the Governor's speech.
